18 the opportunity to develop physically, intellectually, 19 socially, and spiritually; and

20 WHEREAS, the goal of Daisy Low was to bring together 21 girls of all backgrounds to develop self-reliance and 22 resourcefulness, helping them to discover their strengths, 23 passions, and talents; and

24 WHEREAS, shortly after the inception of the Girl
25 Scout Movement, it was decided that there should be a special
26 recognition for girls who represented the very best of Girl

2 dedication, and skill, took action in their communities; and

3 WHEREAS, one hundred years ago, in 1916, the Golden 4 Eaglet was introduced and though the name has changed over the 7 conviction, dynamism, and idealism it takes to earn the 8 highest award in Girl Scouting has not; and

9 WHEREAS, the Girl Scout Gold Award represents these 10 ideals in their highest form, calling on Girl Scouts in grades 11 9-12 to take on projects that have a measurable impact on 12 their community by first assessing a need, designing a 13 solution, completing their project, and inspiring others to 14 sustain it; and

15 WHEREAS, the Gold Award, like the girls who earn it
16 and the projects they undertake, stands as an enduring symbol
17 of the fortitude and personal strength of a Girl Scout,
18 acknowledging each young woman's power and dedication to not 19 only better herself, but to improve the world for others; and

20 WHEREAS, a girl who earns the Girl Scout Gold Award
21 joins an elite circle of fewer than six percent of Girl Scouts
22 annually, and may be eligible for advanced rank when enlisting
23 in the U.S. Armed Forces or for scholarships at some 24 universities and colleges; and

25 WHEREAS, Gold Award recipients report a more 26 positive sense of self, are more engaged civically and in 27 community service, have more confidence in their leadership

1 abilities, and experience great life satisfaction and success;
2 and

3 WHEREAS, with the Gold Award Centennial upon us,
4 Girl Scouts invites alumnae and supporters everywhere to 5 "Celebrate 100 Years of Changing the World"; now therefore,
